

Terence Beney has been an evaluator for over 13 years. He has participated in and led evaluations in a variety of sectors including health, education, democracy and governance, economic development, human rights and early childhood development. Terence has worked across the African continent for governments, international donors and NGOs. His technical strengths are in evaluation design and data analysis. Terence is the immediate past Chair of the South African Monitoring and Evaluation Association.